

✦ Tips & Tricks ✦

- Drink lots of water throughout your healing, maintaining hydration is important!
- Do not pick, pull, scratch or itch your tattoo while it's healing. This will pull the ink out of your skin & could cause scarring.
- To ensure the longevity of your tattoo, make sure to always wear sunscreen when going outside

Please Avoid...

- Do not soak or submerge your tattoo in bodies of water until fully healed (showers are encouraged!)
- Avoid going out into the sun without a covering, and do not tan until fully healed.
- While moisturizing is important, be very mindful not to apply too much moisturizer while healing. There is such a thing as too much! Less is more, in most cases.

Aftercare

Aftercare: Made Simple.

1. Remove Your Bandage - Very carefully remove your second skin bandage after 2-3 days. Under running water, gently work a corner of the bandage up and pull upwards. Do not rip it off quickly. Once removed, do not reapply.
2. Keep it Clean - Wash your tattoo with warm water & a scent free bottled soap, twice a day. (Good options include CeraVe or Cetaphil)
3. Pat it Dry - Ensure to gently pat your tattoo dry with clean, soft paper towel, after washing.
4. If Tight or Dry: Apply a Small Amount of Moisturizer - If your tattoo feels “tight” or overly dry, you can apply a small amount of a scent free moisturizer. Be mindful not to over-saturate your tattoo, as that can be detrimental to the healing process. (Good brands include Lubriderm or Eucerin)
5. Try Not to Be Overly Critical While Healing - Throughout the healing process, you may have some ink fall out. Your skin is a living canvas, be kind to it! Please contact the studio if you think you require a touch up, once fully healed.

Healing Times:

Healing times vary from person to person, but most tattoos are fully healed around 2 - 3 weeks. You will go through a stage of peeling, wherein your body sloughs off the top layer of skin, introducing a shiny “baby skin” underneath. It is important to be gentle with this baby skin & care for it delicately.

Many factors go into healing a tattoo including; your hydration level, your age, your skin's elasticity, the style & application of the tattoo, & aftercare.

Throughout the healing process it is not uncommon to experience:

- Discomfort at the tattoo site, when touched (try not to touch)
- If you have had a session with more saturated areas; swelling is not uncommon
- Itchiness, dryness & peeling
- Scabbing can also happen occasionally. It is very important to not pick these & allow them to fall off naturally.

If you experience anything of concern, please reach out to us directly & we can advise how to proceed.
